

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design)

By Janet Donohoe

Download now

Read Online →

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design)

By Janet Donohoe

This book is a phenomenological investigation of the interrelations of tradition, memory, place and the body. Drawing upon philosophers such as Husserl, Heidegger, Merleau-Ponty, Gadamer, and Ricoeur, Janet Donohoe uses the idea of a palimpsest to argue that layers of the past are carried along as traditions, through places and bodies, such that we can speak of memory as being written upon place and place as being written upon memory. In dialogue with theorists such as Jeff Malpas and Ed Casey, Donohoe focuses on analysis of monuments and memorials to investigate how such deliberate places of collective memory can be ideological, or can open us to the past and different traditions. The insights in this book will be of particular value to place theorists and phenomenologists in disciplines such as philosophy, geography, memory studies, public history, and environmental studies.

↓ Download Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of th ...pdf

📖 Read Online Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of ...pdf

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design)

By Janet Donohoe

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe

This book is a phenomenological investigation of the interrelations of tradition, memory, place and the body. Drawing upon philosophers such as Husserl, Heidegger, Merleau-Ponty, Gadamer, and Ricoeur, Janet Donohoe uses the idea of a palimpsest to argue that layers of the past are carried along as traditions, through places and bodies, such that we can speak of memory as being written upon place and place as being written upon memory. In dialogue with theorists such as Jeff Malpas and Ed Casey, Donohoe focuses on analysis of monuments and memorials to investigate how such deliberate places of collective memory can be ideological, or can open us to the past and different traditions. The insights in this book will be of particular value to place theorists and phenomenologists in disciplines such as philosophy, geography, memory studies, public history, and environmental studies.

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe Bibliography

- Sales Rank: #3802665 in Books
- Published on: 2014-06-18
- Original language: English
- Number of items: 1
- Dimensions: 9.35" h x .71" w x 6.62" l, .0 pounds
- Binding: Hardcover
- 194 pages

 Download Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of th ...pdf

 Read Online Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of ...pdf

Download and Read Free Online Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe

---

Editorial Review

Review

Phenomenology is distinctive in that it attends not only to the everyday, ordinary, and mundane dimensions of existence, but also specifically considers such dimensions as they are experienced. Donohoe argues that the complicated relationship between memory, tradition, and place is fundamentally important to all lived experience. Place is what allows for collective memory, and such memory is what constitutes the traditions by which one finds oneself attached to specific places. Working in light of Edmund Husserl, Martin Heidegger, and Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and in conversation with the phenomenological accounts of place and memory offered by Ed Casey and Gaston Bachelard, Donohoe offers a compelling account of place as a palimpsest—a form of writing that allows what has been erased to remain visible. Suggesting that memory works in the same way, Donohoe opens productive ways to think about lived experience by considering how such experience always occurs somewhere. By focusing on location and then reflecting on the meaning generated by it, Donohoe enables phenomenology to be even more careful concerning the task of philosophizing. Summing Up: Recommended. Upper-level undergraduates through researchers/faculty. (CHOICE)

The book offers a couple of original insights to the field. . . . [and] succeeds in shedding light on a number of important questions that still remain unresolved in the field. (Nature and Human Life)

True to its title, Janet Donohoe's Remembering Places, is an eloquent and evocative recollection of the intimate connection of place with memory and of memory with place. Beginning with the phenomenon of home, and moving on to explore questions concerning tradition, mourning, forgetting, memorial and monument, and even contemporary virtuality, Donohoe deftly combines phenomenological and hermeneutic analysis with personal experience and reflection. Perhaps the most intriguing element in the work is the implicit suggestion that time is itself only to be found in place and in our engagement with place. This is a book that will reward careful and thoughtful reading. It makes a significant contribution to contemporary philosophical topography at the same time as it also enacts the very task that it enjoins us towards. (Jeff Malpas, Distinguished Professor, University of Tasmania)

Janet Donohoe's reflections on collective memory and tradition bring an important new dimension to discussions of the phenomenology of place. Thoughtful and readable, the work reminds us that places are more than static containers but themselves are the material embodiment and conditions of the possibility of experience. (Ingrid Leman Stefanovic, University of Toronto)

Focusing largely on the lived dimensions of monuments and memorials, Janet Donohoe draws on phenomenological and hermeneutic perspectives to explore the complex relationship between place, memory, and history. The study includes a helpful overview of phenomenological research on place; particularly valuable is Donohoe's perceptive clarification of phenomenologist Edmund Husserl's co-constituted concepts of homeworld and alienworld. She examines how places provide not only settings for human life but also help shape memory, tradition, and a lived sense of history. Lastly, Donohoe offers a thoughtful philosophical discussion of the personal and collective value of monuments and memorials as they evoke existential and historical meanings through an intensified ambience of place. Donohoe's book is an important phenomenological contribution to the growing interdisciplinary literature on place studies. (David Seamon, Kansas State University)

This study provides a unique insight into common experiences and desires to return to important places of our past and to establish places of memory. Drawing upon philosophers such as Husserl, Heidegger, Merleau-Ponty, Gadamer, and Ricoeur, Janet Donohoe uses the idea of a palimpsest to argue that layers of the past are carried along as traditions through places and bodies such that we can speak of memory as being written upon place and place as being written upon memory.

About the Author

Janet Donohoe is professor of philosophy at the University of West Georgia.

Users Review

From reader reviews:

Hilda Dumas:

Often the book Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) has a lot info on it. So when you make sure to read this book you can get a lot of profit. The book was written by the very famous author. The author makes some research previous to write this book. This specific book very easy to read you will get the point easily after perusing this book.

Lenore Cortez:

The book untitled Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) contain a lot of information on the idea. The writer explains her idea with easy method. The language is very easy to understand all the people, so do not really worry, you can easy to read this. The book was published by famous author. The author provides you in the new time of literary works. It is easy to read this book because you can continue reading your smart phone, or model, so you can read the book with anywhere and anytime. In a situation you wish to purchase the e-book, you can open their official web-site as well as order it. Have a nice go through.

Harriette Corwin:

In this era which is the greater individual or who has ability in doing something more are more precious than other. Do you want to become one of it? It is just simple way to have that. What you should do is just spending your time almost no but quite enough to possess a look at some books. One of the books in the top listing in your reading list is usually Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design). This book that is certainly qualified as The Hungry Inclines can get you closer in turning into precious person. By looking upward and review this publication you can get many advantages.

Rebecca Walton:

Reading a reserve make you to get more knowledge from it. You can take knowledge and information from your book. Book is written or printed or descriptive from each source this filled update of news. On this modern era like at this point, many ways to get information are available for anyone. From media social such as newspaper, magazines, science e-book, encyclopedia, reference book, story and comic. You can add your understanding by that book. Do you want to spend your spare time to spread out your book? Or just searching for the Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) when you essential it?

Download and Read Online Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe #XCB0TPEMRUI

Read Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe for online ebook

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe Free PDF d0wnl0ad, audio books, books to read, good books to read, cheap books, good books, online books, books online, book reviews epub, read books online, books to read online, online library, greatbooks to read, PDF best books to read, top books to read Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe books to read online.

Online Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe ebook PDF download

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe Doc

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe Mobipocket

Remembering Places: A Phenomenological Study of the Relationship between Memory and Place (Toposophia: Sustainability, Dwelling, Design) By Janet Donohoe EPub